

Government Shutdown Information

If a shutdown of the U.S. Government results in a failure to pay federal government employees, Alliance Credit Union will offer eligible members a zero percent emergency loan. The loan amount will be based on the member's need and eligibility. To be considered for this loan, you must meet the eligibility requirements and agree to the terms and conditions, as described below.

Eligibility Requirements:

You are eligible for this service if:

1. You are a federal government employee whose direct deposit of pay will be impacted by a government shutdown
2. Your direct deposit was processed into an active Alliance Credit Union account immediately preceding the government shutdown

Terms and Conditions:

Maximum loan up to $20,000, term up to 60 months. Actual amount and terms for which you may qualify are based on certain underwriting and credit qualifications. A full credit application must be submitted to determine qualification, loan amount, and eligibility. Certain restrictions apply. By requesting loan assistance, you agree to the following: 1. You certify that you meet the requirements described in the "Eligibility Requirements" section above. 2. You authorize Alliance Credit Union to evaluate your eligibility for an Emergency Loan. If, in connection with the government shutdown, the government fails to pay federal government employees, you further authorize Alliance to extend credit to you in the amount for which you are eligible.

Additional Resources:

Three smart financial moves for furloughed workers:

<https://www.balancepro.org/resources/articles/furloughed-workers/>